DETAILED ACTION

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 1-13, are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of double patenting over claims 1-6, of U. S. Patent No. 6,698,071, since the claims, if allowed, would improperly extend the "right to exclude" already granted in the patent.

Because a perusal of the instant claims clearly indicates that the subject matter thereof is fully disclosed by the claims of said patent and/or that portion of the patent disclosure, which provides support for such claims. See In Re Vogel, 422 F.

2d. 438; 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970). Therefore, it is axiomatic that the instant claims are nothing more than an obvious variation of the invention (s) disclosed and claimed in said patent and cannot properly issue in the absence of a Terminal Disclaimer. Furthermore, it is also clear that the invention could have included the instant claims in said patent and that if the instant application were to issue without Terminal Disclaimer, protection of the previously patented invention (s) would be improperly extended until the expiration of the instant claims since the utilization of such invention (s) would infringe the instant claims.

Furthermore, the subject matter claimed in the instant application is fully disclosed in the patent and is covered by the patent since the patent and the application are claiming common subject matter, as follows: a clip for sheet materials defining a hinge portion, first and second finger portions extending from the hinge portion, the clip made of resilient material, a collar member defining a housing and a latch portion, said collar member is movable between first and positions, and a lever portion (button projection), such that when applying a force to said lever portion causes the collar member to move from the engaged position to the disengaged position.

Furthermore, there is no apparent reason why applicant was prevented from presenting claims corresponding to those of the instant application during prosecution of the application, which matured into a patent. See In re Schneller, 397 F.2d 350, 158 USPQ 210 (CCPA 1968). See also MPEP § 804.

A TERMINAL DISCLAIMER MUST BE SUBMITTED TO THE U. S. PATENT OFFICE, BEFORE THE ALLOWANCE OF THIS APPLICATION.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Applicant's attention is directed to the art cited herein, and of record, as showing structure related to Applicant's disclosed invention.
